ABOUT US

Qemat Alwasat is an independent Iraqi company established on 2010 that provides communication solutions, information technology and VSAT Services. There are two branches of the company in Baghdad and Basra.

We are a System Integrator, Communications and Technology provider that is focused on providing end-to-end ICT solutions across industries to the Iraqi market. Furthermore, give complete solutions ranging from consulting and planning, design, implementation to maintenance.

We are authorized by CMC to Sale and exchange of wired and wireless devices, telecommunications equipment, surveillance devices, cameras, geo-tracking systems, information technology equipment and software, and Sale, exchange, installation and maintenance of peripheral satellite communication systems

Our Mission

Qemat Alwasat mission and ambition is to deliver our services to most private and public sectors in Iraq to provide them with the best capabilities that the company and its employees possess from the expertise in the communications and information technology sector. In addition to that, Al Wasat Summit specializes in technical project management through well-known information technology experts and academics, as well as providing technical advice and studies to government and private agencies such as studying and designing network connectivity, studying and designing infrastructure, studying and designing a virtual computer system in those sectors.

BUSINESS FOCUS

Our activities range from the day-to-day management of our clients' ICT infrastructures and applications, through to the development and integration of business applications and innovative and secure networking solutions. We cover the full business and ICT life-cycle: we design, we implement and we manage. Qemat Alwasat offers a focused portfolio of ICT solutions and services based around seven core areas, which reflect the major concerns of our clients. We ensure to only provide the best service we possibly can. Our solutions portfolio is not static. It evolves continuously with technology and business while core objectives remain constant. The core principle of the portfolio is to question and eliminate complexity.

Qemat Alwasat has no technology products of its own to sell, and so we have no desire to lead our clients to a particular product sale. We are international business technologists, whose only reason for being is to make sure our clients get the best business value and performance from their technology investments.

Qemat Alwasat has contacts with many international companies and local universities to provide them with highly qualified engineers (outsourced staff) with extensive experience in the fields of communication, ICT and software development. Currently our engineers do a lot of work with international oil companies and other companies in Iraq including: Shell, BGC, Eni, Qualitynet, Getronics, AGCN and others.
